

Continuing Education Requirements for North Dakota Licensed Social Workers (And How to Stay on Track)

As a licensed clinical social worker (LCSW) in the state of North Dakota, it is your responsibility to adhere to continuing education requirements each period in order to renew your license. Beyond license renewal being key to you maintaining your practice, continuing education is essential to stay abreast of what is happening in your field – something your clients will always appreciate you taking seriously. Education is how we all continue to learn and further hone our skills and expertise, so it's certainly something to be celebrated. Though education is fantastic, keeping on track with the many hours you need to fulfill can be a challenge. Thankfully, there is a fantastic resource available to help you with that. Before we dive into the resource, let's start by outlining what is required of North Dakota LCSWs in order to renew their license.

Licensee Requirements for North Dakota Licensed Social Workers

Licensed clinical social workers in North Dakota have the responsibility to complete 30 hours of continuing education every two years. All continuing education hours need to be earned before the December 31 deadline in odd-numbered years. Within the required 30 hours, a minimum of two need to be on social work ethics and no more than 10 can come from independent learning. It's important to know that independent learning does not mean distance learning. Live, real-time, webinars and courses count as face-to-face continuing education.

As a final note, proof of completion of continuing education is not required with renewal applications but may be requested up to four years after the licensing cycle (if a licensee is selected for an audit).

Key Takeaways:
