

Continuing Education Requirements for Wyoming Marriage & Family Therapists (And How to Stay on Track)

As a licensed marriage and family therapist (MFT) in the state of Wyoming, it is your responsibility to adhere to continuing education requirements each period in order to renew your license. Beyond license renewal being key to you maintaining your practice, continuing education is essential to stay abreast of what is happening in your field – something your clients will always appreciate you taking seriously. Education is how we all continue to learn and further hone our skills and expertise, so it's certainly something to be celebrated. Though education is fantastic, keeping on track with the many hours you need to fulfill can be a challenge. Thankfully, there is a fantastic resource available to help you with that. Before we dive into the resource, let's start by outlining what is required of Wyoming MFTs in order to renew their license every cycle.

Licensee Requirements for Wyoming Marriage & Family Therapists

All mental health professionals, outside of psychologists, share the same continuing education requirements in the state of Wyoming. With regard to marriage and family therapists, they are expected to obtain 45 hours of continuing education every two years if they wish to renew their license for another cycle. Those hours must be earned before their birthday in their license expiration year and proof of completion is required in renewal applications. Within the required 45 hours, three hours need to be specifically on the topic of professional ethics and another three need to be on suicide assessment and intervention. Beyond that, all 45 hours must be obtained through approved activities, which include college courses, continuing education classes offered by approved entities, presenting to other mental health professionals (up to six hours), and attending Board meetings (up to three hours). As a final note, licensees must maintain record of their continuing education for at least two years following a renewal application.
